Madonna, 67, debuted a risqué photo shoot she did with her much-younger boyfriend, 29-year-old Akeem Morris.

In a series of photos posted to her Instagram this week, the “Like a Virgin” singer posed in a lilac lingerie top, a pink silk underwear set with fishnet tights, and a black corseted lace number with matching gloves.

Madonna wrote beneath the racy post, “Thief of Hearts.....Will you be my Valentinnnnnnnneeeeee?,” and signed the caption with a heart.

Instagram/Madonna

In one portrait, the Queen of Pop lay on a bed in light pink stiletto heels, the angle exposing her undergarments. In another, she opens a white fur coat to reveal a steely blue satin lining and an elaborately layered lingerie look.

The photo fans can’t stop talking about, however, is the final shot. In it, Madonna sits atop a bed with Morris, staring into the camera and covering her breasts with her arms as a cross pendant dangles around her neck.

Morris, who is also shirtless in the selfie, smiles at the camera as he leans back on a pillow behind his scantily clad girlfriend.

Instagram/Madonna

The Jamaican-born former soccer player has been romantically linked to Madonna since 2024.

Although the couple has not publicly commented on their relationship, the stylish pair has attended many high-profile events together, including Paris Fashion Week and the Met Gala in 2025.